MESSAGE FROM THE CONTROLLER

Citizens of Houston,

It is our pleasure to present to you the City of Houston, Texas's (the "City") Popular Annual Financial Report ("PAFR") for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2025. This report is designed to provide you with a clear, concise, and visually engaging overview of the City's finances and financial health. Our aim is to foster transparency by providing accurate and accessible information in a format that is easy for citizens to understand.

The financial data in this report comes from the City's Annual Comprehensive Financial Report ("ACFR"). The ACFR is a comprehensive document that is prepared according to Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP") and undergoes an independent audit. For more in-depth information, you can access the full ACFR here: <https://houstontx.gov/controller/acfr.html>.

We hope this simplified financial summary is easy to read and helps you gain a clearer understanding of how your tax dollars are being utilized.

ABOUT THE CITY

OFFICE OF THE CITY CONTROLLER

The Office of the City Controller oversees Houston’s financial operations, ensuring accountability and transparency in how the City manages its money. Before City Council approves any financial commitments, our office certifies that funds are available. We process and track billions of dollars in payments each year, invest City funds, conduct internal audits of City departments and federal grant programs, and maintain the City’s financial management system. Additionally, we manage bond sales and produce key financial reports and forecasts, including the Annual Comprehensive Financial Report (ACFR).

Houston City Controller Chris Hollins serves as the City’s independently elected Chief Financial Officer and taxpayer “watchdog,” focused on:

- Preventing waste, fraud, and abuse through aggressive audits of the City’s financial transactions.
- Increasing transparency by putting information about the City’s finances and operations at your fingertips in language you understand.
- Improving City operations by offering new ideas and best practices to City departments.
- Charting a path to fiscal sustainability by identifying opportunities to increase revenue and decrease costs without lowering the standard of City services.

HOUSTON CITY GOVERNMENT

The City Council is the City's legislative body, with the power to enact and enforce all ordinances and resolutions. Eleven Council Members are elected from districts and five are elected at-large, by all voters of the City. They adopt and may alter the annual budget and confirm the Mayor's appointments. City Council is responsible for the appropriation and issuance of bonds, the awarding of contracts and the approval of City expenditures over $100,000.

CITY COUNCIL

John Whitmire
Mayor

The Mayor is the City's Chief Executive Officer, responsible for managing the City and ensuring laws and ordinances are enforced.

Chris Hollins
City Controller

The City Controller is the City's Chief Financial Officer, overseeing financial operations, reporting, audit, and treasury functions.

BUDGET PROCESS

Houston's City Council works with the Mayor and City departments to plan and approve a budget every year. This budget covers the money the City expects to spend on things like running the government, paying off debt, and maintaining services like water, trash, and public safety. Some special programs, like disaster recovery or housing, get their own budgets at different times of the year. Big projects like building new roads or airports are not included in the yearly budget. Instead, City Council approves these projects one at a time to make sure everything is carefully planned.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

Boards, commissions, committees, councils, corporations, authorities, and agencies involve residents of the City of Houston who volunteer their time and expertise for the benefit of the community by setting policy, settling disputes, aiding fellow citizens, fundraising, and planning for Houston's future. For a detailed list of boards and commissions visit: <https://www.houstontx.gov/boards/>.

REVENUES AND EXPENSES

The City collected less revenue this year, mostly because federal pandemic funding decreased. Spending also went down, primarily due to lower public safety expenses.

INCREASE IN NET POSITION FROM FY2024

16.0% ↑ or $1.5B

The statement of net position serves as a key indicator of whether the city's financial position is improving or deteriorating. Total assets and deferred outflows of resources of the City exceeded its total liabilities and deferred inflows of resources by $10.3 billion for the period ending June 30, 2025. This is a net increase of $1.5 billion from the prior year.

The largest portion of the City's net position is net investment in capital assets of approximately $11.8 billion (e.g., land, building, machinery, equipment, and infrastructure); less any related debt used to acquire those assets that is still outstanding.

GENERAL FUND

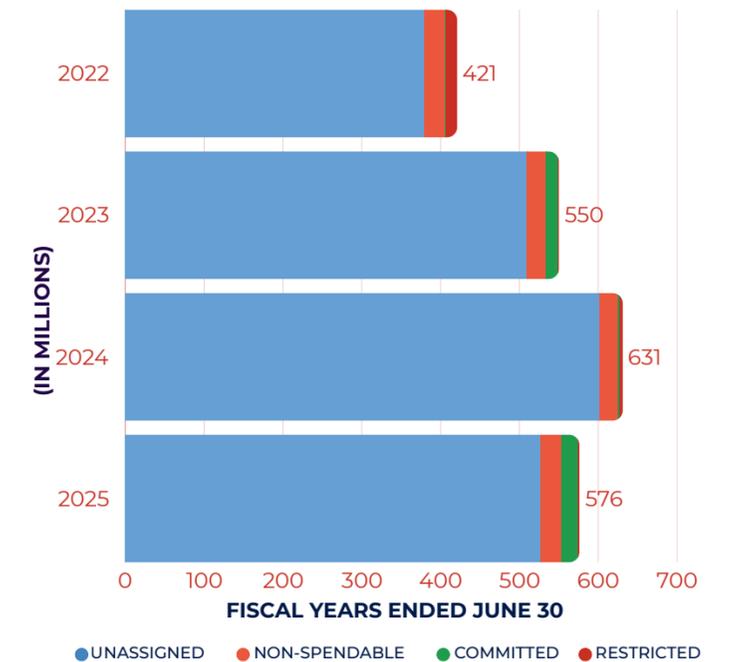

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

GENERAL FUND - FUND BALANCE

The General Fund is the City's largest fund group and supports most of the City's basic services, such as: police and fire protection, solid waste management, parks, health and human services, housing and community development, and general services. Any general operating revenues and expenditures that are not accounted for in another fund are reported in the General Fund. Property and sales taxes account for the greatest share of General Fund revenue while public safety makes up the largest portion of General Fund expenditures.

The Restricted, Committed, and Non-Spendable fund balance categories represent amounts to be used for specific purposes depending on the level of constraints controlling the use of such funds. Any residual balance is classified as Unassigned. At the end of Fiscal Year 2025, the unassigned fund balance of the general fund was $527.1 million, while the total fund balance reached $576.5 million.

ENTERPRISE FUNDS

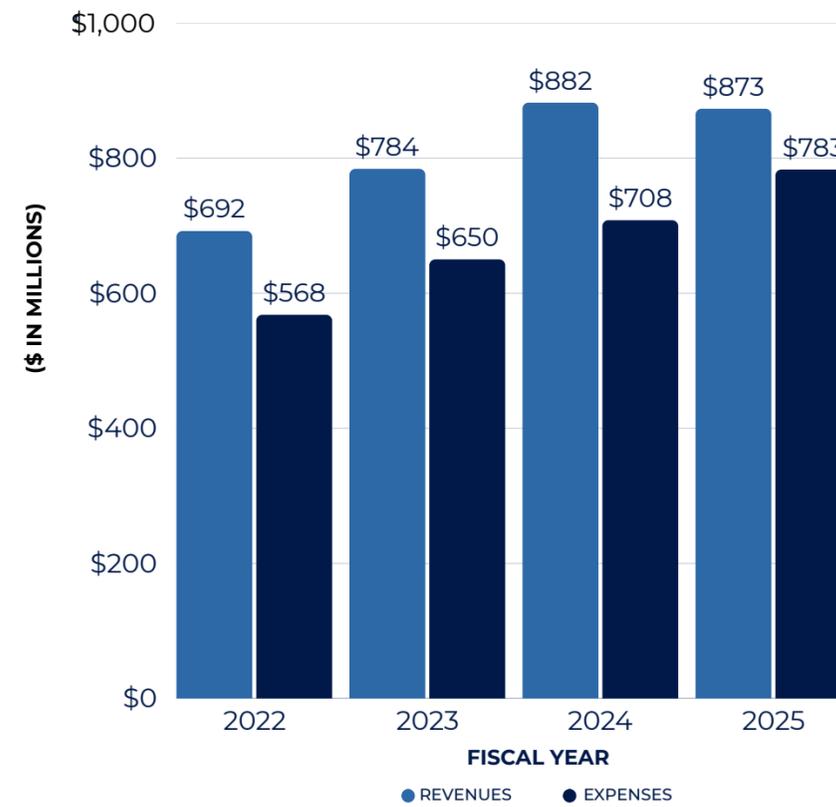

COMBINED UTILITY SYSTEM

Operating revenues for the Combined Utility System increased primarily because utility rates were higher in FY2025 compared to FY2024.

HOUSTON AIRPORT SYSTEM

The Houston Airport System saw higher operating revenues because more people traveled through the airports from FY2024 to FY2025. Operating expenses also increased, mainly due to higher staffing costs and spending on professional services.

The Combined Utility System and the Houston Airport System are the City's largest Enterprise Funds, with combined Fiscal Year 2025 revenues of approximately $2.7 billion.

LONG-TERM DEBT

At the end of Fiscal Year 2025, the City had total long-term debt of $14.2 billion outstanding. $2.5 billion of this debt consisted of General Obligation Bonds and Commercial Paper backed by the full faith and credit of the government. $9.6 billion consisted of revenue bonds payable from the three enterprise funds' revenues. The remainder of the City's debt represents various long-term contracts, leases and pension bonds.
